HARMONY MEANS DEVELOPMENT OF GREAT NATION

Sir Lomer Gouin Says God Destined Us to Form Link of Same Chain.

Kingston, Ont., October 20.—The harmonious development by the two great races, English and French, of their joint heritage, Canada, formed the keynote of the addresses of Sir Lomer Gouin, K.C.M.G., in receiving the degree of LL.D., from Queen's university at the autumn convocation ceremonies here last night. "God has destined us to form links of the same chain and to weld together into a new nation the best qualities of England, Scotland, Ireland and France," said Sir Lomer. "The past teaches us that we have much in common; that the rivalries of old between England and France do not require the offspring of our two races to consider each other as hereditary enemies. We must retain from the past only the lessons of devotion and courage. To whatever race we belong, and whatever faith, party or class, we must try to realize in fact the national unity of our gigantic Dominion to give our country more than its constituent parts, to make it actually one and indivisible. "Any man in Canada who does not treat upon equal terms the French-Canadians because they descend from another race; any man who does not grant upon all his fellow countrymen the fullest measure of fair play, is not a good citizen because he does not work toward that harmonious development."

ONTARIO TOWN IS VISITED BY FOUR BANDITS

Wyoming, Ont., October 20.—Four masked bandits robbed the Bank of Toronto here this afternoon of a sum estimated at $14,000 and made their getaway in a running gun duel with the aroused citizens. The rumor that $10,000 in bonds is also gone, could not be confirmed.

H. Laubach, manager of the bank, was held up in his office by one of the quartette, while another, asking for five dollars in change, drew a gun on the teller. The other two held up the bookkeeper, Miss Vera McIntosh and three customers who were in the bank at the time. The staff was made to lie on the floor, while one of the robbers went through the cash drawers and safes. The manager, his assistants and customers were then locked in the bank vault.

Ronald Brown, the junior clerk at the bank, was near the back door when the men entered. He immediately sprang out the door and gave the alarm.

After collecting the bank's available cash, the robbers made away in an automobile.

Warned by Brown, the citizens responded in numbers, but were poorly armed. As the bandits emerged from the bank a yell from the opposite side of the street opened fire upon them, and in an instant a pitched battle was in progress in which more than twenty-five shots were fired. No one was injured, unless some of the robbers were hit.

By their tactics it seems probable that the robbers are the same gang that robbed a Toronto bank a few days ago.

GRAIN MARKETS OF WORLD SAID TO BE STAGNANT

Little of This Season's Wheat Crop Has Been Exported So Far.

Montreal, October 18.—The absence of foreign demand at the present time is responsible for one of the most intricate wheat problems this country has been confronted with for a long time, and unavoidable congestion is not unexpected. Canadian grain is plentiful. Montreal grain dealers and exporters are unanimous in the opinion that the grain market is stagnant.

"In Europe they are staring from hand to mouth so far as grain supplies are concerned," said T. H. Reeves, manager of James Carruthers & Sons, Ltd., "and the United Kingdom is not buying because of financial conditions, and we do not know where we are at. We know, however, that all this country's crop has been exported so far, and we have no reserves of any consequence. But Europe will have to buy soon," he continued. "For their supply is nearly exhausted. Lower prices are expected to govern the grain market, and it is quite possible the price will decline to a dollar."

"It is just like everything else," said P. A. Haywood, of the firm of Richardson & Sons, "when the pendulum swings, it swings too far. When the market is inclined upward, prices proceed to a level beyond their true value. When an adverse situation predominates, the decline registered is out of proportion. This situation features the present grain market conditions."

STOCKMEN ARE IN FAVOR OF SCHEME MOOTED BY U.F.A.

Believe That Chilled Meat May Be Profitably Shipped Abroad.

The recommendation of the executive of the United Farmers of Alberta that the provincial government should immediately give the scheme of shipping chilled beef from Alberta to Britain its consideration, has generally speaking, met with the approval of stockmen and those closely identified with the livestock industry. "No stone should be left unturned to put before the public the various merits of shipping," was the comment of E. S. McTavish, western manager of the United Grain Growers, in discussing the matter on Tuesday, and this remark just about sums up the opinion of others.

It is pointed out by those not so favorably inclined to the idea that there are many obstacles in the way of making the venture a success; the principal difficulty would be in transporting the meat a distance of about 6,000 miles and for it to arrive at its destination in a marketable condition.

PLAN IS FEASIBLE
On the other hand, it is objected by others that the plan as outlined by the special committee that was appointed by the U.F.A. is entirely feasible, and that the figures given would tend to show that there was a reasonable margin of profit in the business. It is urged by the advocates of the scheme that the government would only be asked to temporarily finance the initial shipments; when the proceeds of the sales came to hand and the business was placed on a self-supporting basis the money would be refunded. In considering the scheme it is interesting to refer to a Dominion News Service dispatch which has just come to hand from London. This reads: "An experiment in shipping lightly chilled Canadian meat to this country has been successfully made, the meat being on sale in London ten days after the animals were slaughtered in Toronto."

"The meat was transported through-out at a temperature which did not fall below freezing point, and arrived in excellent condition, practically that of fresh-killed beef."

"Owing to the shorter sea voyage and the lightly chilled condition of the beef on arrival in London, it is expected that Canadian meat will approach the quality of the home-killed instead of challenging comparison with the Argentine chilled."

William Spurrell, of Bowden, one of the members of the special committee that was appointed to bring in a report on the matter, and who made investigations at first hand in the old country, in the course of an interview with The Herald stated that he was so firmly convinced as ever that the scheme would prove an outstanding success, that the objections that had been raised, so far as transportation from this province was concerned, were only those incident to any new venture, and could easily be overcome by the railways providing the right type of cars. There was not the slightest doubt but that the railways would look after their end of the business quite satisfactorily, said Spurrell.

While as a commencement it might be expedient for the animals to be slaughtered at some convenient point in the east, say Montreal, the intention was for this to be done in Alberta, and thus build up a variety of industries right within the province, and which were so badly needed. The whole scheme, he maintained, was most attractive from every angle. It might be viewed, and it was now up to the provincial government to start the ball rolling.

Gordon McMaster, 23, C.P.R. trainman, of Chapleau, Ont., was accidentally shot and justly killed on Friday.

IDLE THOUGHTS OF A BUSY FARMER

We are glad to be able to state that Ed. Horstak did not finish his trip to the cemetery. People who have travelled west from the city know that about three quarters of a mile west of that burg there is a steep hill leading to the Blindman river with a sharp turn at the foot to avoid said river. At the turn is a culvert and a deep gully. This summer the culvert didn't quite hit the culvert on the curve, but he hit the fence. The posts being strong, hung the car over the gully, and Ed. was able to walk home, instead of riding in a hearse to the cemetery.

Gavin Caldwell, near Lockhart P.O., threshed a field of oats last week which ran 132 bushels to the acre. There are many deserving poor devils who would like to have done likewise.

So it is proposed that the U. F. A. should run progressive candidates to support Cramer. And who is Cramer? He is the head of the United Grain Growers Co., a company which handles American manufactured farm machinery and therefore wishes that that machinery should enter Canada free of duty. He is also president of the company which is banking at the government investigating its methods of handling the American grain. Truly he seems a true friend of the farmer. As I understand it, these progressive desires to have protection and let in all American products free. In that case what will the Canadian farmer do? The U.S.A. have put up a prohibitive wall against Canadian farm products, but the Progressives desire to let American manufacturers in free. This will put our Canadian farmers on the blink and no less our urban population. For a lessened town population to feed the farmers will be left with more for export. The American miller cannot make the best grade of flour without a certain amount of Canadian hard wheat. No such wheat as Canada hard is grown in Minnesota or the Dakotas. This is demonstrated by the fact that in spite of the Progressives' talk of prohibiting the import of Canadian wheat to the U. S. A., there might be something in it, for that would mean the Canadian miller to outclass the U. S. ditto with flour in the world's markets and so enhance the value of Canadian wheat.

In the Lacombe Globe we saw that some burglar or burglars broke into W. Elliot's harness shop in that city but were disturbed (whether by Billy's snore or the sound of Sam Morris' gun shoes is not decided) before anything was stolen. These burglars must have travelled west, as shortly after someone entered Otto's stable and cleared out a set of team harness and some other items.

A little fracas over a threshing outfit helped to liven Bentley up. One gentleman enquired of the other about certain payments on the rig. The answer was not said in the "downer" but with a fist. The fisty one, we believe, was requested to visit with Inspector Fisher and Scottie Robertson for a short period.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FREIGHT RATES REDUCED

Vancouver, October 26.—Involving a saving of at least $2,000,000 yearly to shippers and consignees to British Columbia, and marking another successful step in British Columbia's fight for equalization of freight rates, judgment has been handed down by the board of railway commissioners at Ottawa, placing British Columbia on the same rate basis as that prevailing between Port William and Winnipeg.

Announcement of the board's ruling was received here today by Secretary Hugh Dalton, of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' association.

The ruling will mean a reduction in freight costs on every cargo passing between Pacific coast points and points as far east as Calgary, of between $5.00 and $6.00.

MANY FARMERS HAVE LOST ALL BY BUSH FIRES

Telfordville, Elford and Thorby Are Being Swept by Great Blazes.

Calmar, Alberta, October 20.—The whole country around Telfordville, Elford and Thorby, sixteen miles from Calmar, and twenty-six miles from Leduc, is a mass of flames. Several farmers have lost their grain, houses, horses, hay and other farm materials.

The fire, which had its origin two weeks ago, was revived on Tuesday last by the strong gale which blew throughout the day. The fire swept over the country with terrific speed and soon enveloped the whole territory in a thick smoke plainly seen from Calmar, miles distant.

Six different fires were burning around Telfordville district at one time covering an area ten miles in length. Provincial police being not at Leduc, three automobiles soon afterwards passed through Calmar loaded to capacity with fire fighters for Telfordville district, to save farmers' homes if possible.

It is hoped by residents throughout the countryside here that the trade wind of the wind will enable the fire fighters to check the flames before they extend to new areas. But the porie as to the extent of damage already sustained are not yet available. The following farmers were burned out: P. C. Peenson, J. Johnson, considerable grain and hay; C. Hofs, new house; M. McEne, five stacks of grain and quantity of hay.

PREMIER'S REMARK ON BOLSHEVISM IS FULLY EXPLAINED

Meligen Tells Just What He Did Say in That Respect.

Clinton, Ont., October 20.—A large crowd gathered at the rink yesterday afternoon to hear Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia and local speaker discuss political issues. Hon. Hugh Guthrie said that the political movement of Mr. Meighen had originated in the minds of immigrants from the United States. They were looking back home and trying to make a clear path between them and the land they had left. The farmer movement was a class movement and nothing more, said Mr. Guthrie.

"It's a selfish movement," he said. "It's a movement seeking support from farmers just because they are farmers. The principles which it seeks to enforce are not in the interests of the people of Canada."

George Spotten, Liberal Conservative candidate in North Huron, said that while Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues were using all their strength to help the boys at the front, Premier Drury and J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U. F. O., were at Ottawa trying to prevent the sending of help.

STATEMENT EXPLAINED

Premier Meighen said that he had been charged with referring to Canadian farmers as Bolshevists. This was the first time he had referred to this charge and he did it only with a minister of the Ontario government had made reference to it. He had written to the minister asking him to present proof that the statement had been made, and the minister, in a confidential letter, had replied that he never had made the reference attributed to him, and that he was satisfied that Mr. Meighen had never made such a statement.

What he said, declared the premier, was that though the Progressives themselves were wholly opposed to Bolshevist principles, they had trailing behind them many of the dilatory and Bolshevistic tendencies. To this statement he adhered.

The premier again combated allegations that the government was working for the big interests.

LLOYD GEORGE DETAILS GOVT POLICY TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Propose to Guarantee the Interest on Loans to £25,000,000.

London, October 20.—Following closely upon the British government's announced determination to deal with the unemployment situation by the extension of extraordinary credits and the decision to make no Briton is to starve, David Lloyd George, prime minister, delivered a notable address in parliament yesterday outlining the government's policy both with regard to trade and unemployment.

The prime minister declared that the entire situation was the result of the war and that a good understanding between nations, together with trade rehabilitation was the essential remedy for a cure.

In outlining the government's proposal to alleviate unemployment, Mr. Lloyd George made the following declaration:

STAND FOR STABILITY

"Peace and a good understanding among nations is vital. Let us get out of the atmosphere where if you talk about a German without a frown on your brow you are not a patriot. Trade cannot start in such an atmosphere. If you intervene to make peace, your motives are misunderstood; but if Great Britain will not do it, who will? We stand for stability. We want to see the nations again within the last of peace."

The entire speech of the prime minister was a plea that the country is suffering from the results of the war, and a declaration that restoration rests upon the revival of industry and the rehabilitation of the purchasing power abroad, and that a revival in trade depends largely upon the bringing about of a good understanding among nations.

STEPS ARE JUSTIFIED

Lloyd George spiritedly justified the steps the government already had taken to meet the unemployment problem. He contended that the British plan of imposing heavy taxation was much better than the means adopted by some countries of creating artificial credit and subsidizing a feverish boom to be speedily followed by serious reaction.

The prime minister said the government proposed conditionally to guarantee interest on loans aggregating £25,000,000 for use in capital undertakings providing employment or for the purchase of material for manufacturers, and also to allocate ten million pounds for the assistance of relief work, and later the establishment of a fund for workers' deposits.

DOLE SYSTEM BAD

The prime minister argued that the problem of unemployment, relief work was unsatisfactory and the dole system worse. He admitted that to try to stimulate trade abroad would involve the government in some risk, but he declared it was better to take the risk than to stand still. The government therefore had decided to extend its export scheme to other countries, including the British dominions.

He also proposed further assistance for state-aided emigration of former service men; the allocation of £10,000,000 for relief work in forestry and drainage; additional assistance to the local authorities; to share in the interests on the loans raised by public works and an extension of the benefits under the unemployment insurance by an additional levy of two pence.

BIG FIELD IN RUSSIA

In the course of his speech Mr. Lloyd George, referring to trade with Russia, said there had been no restrictions on the British side to trading, but that the local trade for the first eight months of the present year had been only £3,150,000, which showed there was not an unlimited field in Russia for British or any other enterprise.

Concerning proposed guarantees of interest on loans rated by any dominion or colonial governments or any foreign government or local authority for essential enterprises, such as electrification and waterways, which would provide immediately employment in the United Kingdom, the prime minister explained that the total liability of the government would be £25,000,000, and that a committee of men of high authority and knowledge would be created to administer the scheme.

In the debate following the prime minister's speech, Mr. Asquith said in his judgment the question of reconsideration of the entire problem of international indebtedness, including the indebtedness of the allies to one another and the indebtedness of their late enemies to the allies.

LIQUOR TO BE SOLD ONLY BY THE VENDORS

Edmonton, October 21.—No announcement is forthcoming yet as to the date of the bye-elections for the provincial cabinet ministers. The executive council was in session all of Thursday afternoon, but though this matter and other questions were under discussion, no definite conclusions were arrived at, and there was nothing to announce. The premier told the Alberta last night.

Attorney-General Brownie, it is understood, brought forward certain proposals regarding the administration of the liquor act and changes in the act, and there may be announcements regarding these in a few days. It is almost certain that Mr. Brownie has decided to take the liquor business out of the hands of the druggists altogether and confine it solely to government vendors.

EUROPE STOPS BUYING GRAIN AT STANDSTILL

Montreal, October 14.—Owing to the dearth of ocean tonnage and a falling grain market, there is now acute grain congestion in the Montreal harbor elevators which promises to be the most serious ever experienced in this port. Number two elevator and the Grand Trunk elevator have already suspended all operations, being to capacity. Twenty-two grain boats from the Great Lakes are lying in the harbor with full holds but the elevators are helpless and cannot receive any further shipments.

To make matters worse, more lake boats are due here shortly. Roughly speaking, there are thirteen hundred car loads of grain waiting for the Grand Trunk elevator, and about two thousand for the harbor elevators, while between Montreal and Georgian Bay ports, approximately 30,000,000 bushels are either in transit or stored.

The main cause of this existing acute congestion, which is causing no little apprehension, is the fact that Europe has stopped buying with the result that tramp steamers no longer come here. European demand has fallen off causing a reduction in corn and grain prices. There will be very little buying anywhere it is said until prices have descended to a new low level and have become stabilized. Officials state that the present conditions are unprecedented.

ore going around them, drawing big salaries and spreading discord among the people.

The U.G.G. had not done as it had proposed to do when it was formed. They had secured a lot of cheap money to carry on business, and the profits were going to the privileged ones and their leaders getting salaries running as high as $24,000.

The speaker had always tried to be a man, and if elected as representative for this riding, he would do his best. He felt there was a support here now to defeat group government here, but he needed all the support he could get; he would do his part.

He felt that he could represent the constituency better than a man who did not know the riding or one that was tied down to a class organization. If a man voted against him, he would still consider it to be his duty to represent him, he felt.

He would go into the contest to win, and would go all the time from now until Election Day, December 6.

He wanted all the good help available.

UNANIMOUS

After Mr. Day had finished, the chairman asked the convention if they were satisfied with Mr. Day's statement. No objection whatever was raised, and a vote was taken on the proposal to make Mr. Day's nomination unanimous. There was not a single dissenting vote.

A. L. POWNE SPEAKS

On the invitation of the chairman for representatives of the various districts to address a short session, A. L. Powne, representing the Stettin, would prefer to have seen the candidate nominated in an open way, without the atmosphere of any party surrounding it, but he would support the nominee, and hope that his Liberal friends would do likewise.

Opposition to class government is the main issue in this campaign, Mr. Powne contended. One-man government, under the dictation of the President of the U.P.A., is not good enough. The U.P.A. is conceived as a good organization, but it is drifting too much into the hands of the radicals. It is the broad-minded farmers of this constituency that would elect J. F. Day.

The speaker stated that he is farming 1,000 acres himself, and it was nonsense to imagine that he would be fighting against the U.P.A. nominee. He thought that policy would benefit the farmers of this country.

On the contrary, he was certain that the farmers would be ruined if H. W. Wood could carry out his platform. The United States farmer is worse off today than the Canadian farmer is. Our farmers have made money out of the war prices during the past few years and should be able to stand the shock of depressed prices for a year or so. To have a prosperous country, we must have prosperous farmers.

more. The U.G.G. is agitating for free machinery. They handle machinery and claim they are losing money on it. Can the machine men be making big profits when that is the case?

The trouble with the grain business is that the crop is all moved on the market in three months. Some body has to supply the storage capacity and has to get profits to cover the risk. Crerar claims to be even to big business, yet he is the head of the greatest corporation in Canada outside of banks and the U.G.G.

The U.G.G. is a big corporation, financed by thousands of farmers, paying him salaries to his officers with the profits going to privileged parties. The company carries on many lines of business, and is losing money on some of these, lumber for instance.

This election would be won by farmer talking to farmer, showing that it is a mistake to support the "Farmer's Union." He thought J. F. Day was the man that this constituency needed to represent it, and it is a very big riding, too big for one man to get over personally.

OTHER SPEAKERS

F. E. McLeod, Lacombe, assured the candidate of strong support at Lacombe. Many of the Liberals there are satisfied by Mr. Day's platform. Fred Archer, Innisfail, thought that Mr. Day could pull up pretty even with the Farmer nominees in that district. They would support him heartily.

Mr. Craig assured good support from Olds. He had personally heard good reports of Mr. Day and wished there were more like him in the country. H. W. Wilson, Sylvan Lake, had supported the U.P.A. candidate in the last election, thinking perhaps they were able to give better government, but he has his doubts. He referred to the tendency for miners and lumberjacks to favor anything new. You could always get a crowd by standing on the corner, hollering "fire." Still it would be necessary to go to some unknown portion of the world to find better conditions than we have here. The situation in Europe, for instance, is almost desperate. It is a bad time to make radical changes in the U.P.A. The supporters of J. F. Day would make their views felt in the west country.

W. E. PAYNE

The chairman had made some preparations for the meeting, and entered into a scathing attack on some of the transactions of the U.G.G. Mr. Payne recounted the objects for which the U.G.G. was brought into being, as follows:

1. To remedy existing malpractices in the grain trade.
2. To see that the producer got value for his grain, which they claimed it was not getting.
3. To see that he got good weights instead of bad weights.

4. To clip the wings of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, which was called the octopus.

5. To eliminate the middle man.

6. To eliminate speculation in grain.

In other words the farmer companies were formed for the purpose of cleaning the grain trade.

The company had done very well at its inception, but has been walking backwards ever since it was formed. It has even descended to the point where it would sell the farmers' grain at a loss to get it out of their hands. Crerar claims to be even to big business, yet he is the head of the greatest corporation in Canada outside of banks and the U.G.G.

IS GOV'T. TO ENTER BUSINESS OF MARKETING?

Crerar Asks Pertinent Question of Meighen; Tells Why the Grain Inquiry Was Stopped.

Wasketon, Oct. 28.—Again last night Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, contributed to the long running debate between the prime minister and himself. This question at issue was the halted inquiry into the grain trade, and especially references made thereto by Mr. Meighen at St. John's.

Government speakers, Mr. Crerar accused, were engaged in a "campaign of misrepresentation," and, in passing, Mr. Crerar took occasion to put a few questions in regard to the voluntary wheat pool, formation of which, if he were returned to power, was indicated by Mr. Meighen in his opening speech at St. John's. "If we should have the government not furnish grain implements or market, Ontario cheese? Why should the government not go into the business of marketing cattle? There should, Mr. Crerar urged, be a definite pronouncement whether or not the business of marketing was to be a permanent feature of government policy.

GRAIN INQUIRY
On the question of the grain inquiry, Mr. Crerar took up his own position as president of the United Grain Growers. "I have been represented," he said, "as a person anxious to get big business and as a dangerous character who has cursed and shut up an inquiry." As a shareholder of the United Grain Growers, Mr. Crerar said, his dividends last year amounted to ten dollars, and he owned 100 shares which any individual might hold was a thousand dollars and his own and mine were considerably under the limit.

A POLITICAL MOVE
"I should not have brought this matter up," said Mr. Crerar, "but Mr. Meighen referred to it at St. John's last night. He said that I had left the grain inquiry and left the impression that I had something to hide."

"We shut it off," Mr. Crerar went on, "because we knew it was a political commission, and out to do everything to wreck us, and we are not going to submit to it. It is by any means the worst thing we could do. Injunction proceedings were taken and the courts held that the whole thing was illegal. The case is now in appeal."

MANY AMENDMENTS TO ELECTION ACT

Attempt to Get Rid of Old-Time Election Evils

There are many things in connection with the conduct of provincial elections which are changed considerably under the present Dominion Election Act from what they were formerly. Every precaution which could be taken by parliament to ensure "clean" and orderly elections was taken in amending the act during the last two sessions and the result is a law which should provide against what were formerly considered, in many cases, unavoidable election evils.

One of the amendments which caused considerable comment in the country at the time it was passed was that referring to campaign fund contributions. Clause Ten of the amended Act has been made to read: "No unincorporated company or association and no incorporated company or association other than one incorporated for political purposes shall, directly or indirectly, contribute, loan, advance, pay, or promise to pay, or pay in aid of any candidate at an election, or for or in aid of any political party, committee or association, or for or in aid of any company incorporated for political purposes, or to, or for, in furtherance of, or for the purpose of, or for the indemnification or reimbursement of any person for money so used."

At the time this clause was introduced in the House the claim was made that it was aimed at the political fund which it was stated was then being raised by the former organizations of the western provinces. It was, however, with little opposition.

The conveyance of electors to polls, etc., is also forbidden by the act. This is not a new amendment but is one which was strengthened somewhat in the amending of the former act. It is not an offence under the act, however, for anyone being an elector, to pay his own fare to or from the polling station. By another clause it is made an offence to pay or promise to pay the expenses, wages and other costs of an elector going to or from a polling station. "Every employer shall, on polling day, allow every elector in his employ at least two additional hours other than the noon hour, for voting, and no employer shall make any deduction from the pay of such elector nor impose upon or exact from him any penalty by reason of his absence during such hours."

For the protection of candidates in elections it is also made an indictable offence for any person during, or before any election to make or publish any false statement of fact in relation to the personal character or conduct of any candidate for the purpose of affecting the return of that candidate to office.

For the keeping of order in and about polling stations, election officers as is generally known are given powers as peace officers to arrest or order the arrest of any person committing an offence under the act. It is not generally known, however, that the returning officer or his deputy may, during nomination day and polling day, require any person within half a mile of the place of nomination or polling to deliver to him any firearm, sword, staff, bludgeon, or other offensive weapon in the hands of or personal possession of such person, and the person so required shall forthwith so deliver. Nor may a stranger come armed into a polling division nor a resident arm himself.

Other prohibitions in the act are against the use of banners, ribbons, favours, badges or labels to distinguish the political leanings of the wearer on election day or within eight days of that date. McGill's New Chancellor

JAMES MCGILL
Founder of McGill University

Although the centenary celebrations at Montreal indicate that McGill University is already a hundred years old, the history of this educational institution reach still further into the past. In the fascinating volume "McGill and His Story" just published, Cyrus Maclean, the author, states that the British settlers in Lower Canada, after the conquest of Quebec were eager that their children should have at least an elementary education. It was felt, too, that in the unrest and the uncertainty of the period immediately following the American Revolution it was not advisable to send students in search of higher professional training to the universities of the United States, which in the days of their British allegiance had attracted Canadian students in large numbers.

Efforts were accordingly made to establish a system of free schools with the hope that later a university might be founded. As the first English school in Montreal was always much of a struggle, the agitation for the establishment of educational opportunities in Lower Canada, The Royal Institute for the Advancement of Learning was established under this Act, the King gave directions for the establishment of a competent number of Free Schools for the instruction of the children of the poor. The first school was opened on January 1st, 1848, to November 20th, 1848. That was the full amount of salary received by him during the year; but he still, says the author, had his cow and his garden!

Dr. D. C. Macdonald wrote an account of medical student life about this time. "A large proportion of the students," he said, "were men verging on, or who had passed, middle age. Indeed, several of them were married men, and the heads of families. There was sufficient of the youthful, however, to keep things lively. 'Footing Suppers,' practical jokes, and special country excursions to secure material for practical anatomy were of frequent occurrence. The last, involving as it did a certain amount of danger, commanded the interest of the class, who were ready to organize and lead an excursion having that object in view. These excursions were not at all times successful, and the participants were often sometimes threatened in their attempts and had to beat a precipitate retreat to save themselves from serious threatened injury."

The first real progress was made when the late Sir William Dawson became Principal. "When I accepted the principalship," he said, "I was in his reminiscences, 'I had not been in Montreal, and knew the college from the outside. I saw it only by reputation. I first saw it in October, 1877. Materially it was represented by two blocks of unfinished and partly ruinous buildings, standing amid a wilderness of excavators' and masons' rubbish overgrown with weeds and bushes. The grounds were unfenced and were pastured at will by herds of cattle, which not only cropped the grass, but browsed on the shrubs, leaving untidy only one great elm which still stands as the 'founder's tree,' and a few old oaks and butternut trees, most of which have had to give place to our new buildings. The only access from the town was by a circuitous and ungraded cart track almost impassable at night. The buildings had been abandoned by the Board and the classes of the Faculty of Arts were held in the upper story of a brick building which had been occupied by the High School."

A direct appeal for financial assistance was then made to the citizens of Montreal. It met with an encouraging response, which greatly relieved the situation, and was what Dr. Dawson, forty years later, called "the beginning of a stream of liberality which has floated our University baroque up to the present date."

The more recent expansion of McGill to its present strong position is well known. The appointment of Sir Arthur Currie as Principal and the still more recent election of Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, as Chancellor have given it a practical administration which is calculated to ensure its continued progress as an essentially National University. In the foreword to his volume Professor Macmillan writes: "There is a new spirit in McGill. To-day its pulsing life, under the guidance of a great Canadian leader, reaches through all grades and faculties and departments of its students as it has never done before. There is a general forward movement unimpeded and undivided by considerations or competitions of sections or of faculties. The University is closer, too, than it once was to the current of national feeling. It is seeking to Minister to Canada, the land which gave it birth and from which its greatness sprang. But while it will serve Canada, it will continue to draw its students, like the true 'Stadium Generale,' from every corner of the world. McGill's first century has been a century of trial, but a century of great accomplishment. The publishers of 'McGill and His Story' are S. B. Gundy, of the Oxford University Press, Toronto, in Canada, and John Lane in London, England, and the John Lane Company in New York."

PROVINCE LEADS IN BOOTLEGGING SAYS BEN SPENCE

Toronto, October 14.—Rev. Ben Spence, of the Dominion Alliance, says the liquor legislation in Ontario regarding the granting of prescriptions by doctors is a "plausible" and that the license commissioners are helpless because of the law. He states that the Dominion Alliance will petition the government to have the law changed at the next session of the legislature.

Mr. Spence concluded: "In spite of the request of the medical association of Ontario that the amount that might be prescribed and furnished upon prescriptions should be limited to eight ounces, the law still allows forty ounces prescribed, and although the late chairman of the board of license commissioners emphatically stated that over ninety per cent. of such prescriptions were not issued for bonafide medical purposes, the government of the province monogously takes the trade in this hypocritical furnishing of liquor and today as a matter of fact, supplies more liquor used illegally for beverage purposes than any other bootlegger in the province."

LION HUNTING A RISKY SPORT

From Nairobi, British East Africa, comes a thrilling story of the death of a transport agent named Klosser, who, pined down by a lioness, had wounded, made a desperate bid for victory by putting both hands in the animal's mouth and gripping its tongue.

Africa is a paradise for the lion hunter, and the literature of the chase is almost endless. Not all lion hunters are strictly truthful, however.

For instance, in a remote African village I once came across a deeply tanned prospector-hunter who swore that his favorite method of hunting lions was to get the animals to sneeze themselves to death.

"It is quite simple," he said. "In the lion country you build a little arch of stone, just big enough to allow the lion to enter with comfort. You must take care to build it of jagged stones and to see that the centre stone of the arch is a particularly jagged one."

"Then you go out and shoot a zebra or some other tame creature from the lion's point of view. You drag the corpse under the arch, push it through and then retire to your tent to sleep."

"In the night the lion comes, creeps under the arch to his feast, gets his nose filled with pepper, and has an overpowering inclination to sneeze. He sneezes, and in the act throws up and dashes his brains out on the centre jagged stone of your arch."

"I do not vouch for the truth of that story, but here is one for which I can vouch."

A party of men trekking in Rhodesia in an ox-wagon heard a connection one night among their oxen and a rushing towards the spot, pumped about a dozen shots into the heaving mass from a distance of say, 40 yards.

The mass diminished, and they advanced to find one of their oxen horribly mangled by lions.

"They dosed" the corpse with strychnine and retired to their camp. They heard the lions busy at the carcass all night, and in the morning they found that the dead ox had practically disappeared, but lying near the post were five full-grown lions—two males and three females—all poisoned.

That was a very considerable bag got by illegitimate means, but here is the true story of a better bag got legitimately. Incidentally it is a very interesting example of sportsmen's luck.

When the late President Roosevelt and his son, Kermit, went to British East Africa, in 1909, they were accompanied on their hunting trip by the late P. C. Selous, one of the greatest hunters that ever lived.

Selous was particularly anxious to secure a specimen of that African black-maned lion, but on the whole trip he never even got a shot at one. But Theodore Roosevelt got three and Kermit eight—and neither of them had ever been on an African game-hunting expedition before!

KEEP BUSY.

"The man with time to burn never saves the world any light."

This sounds rather strangely to some of us who never have any to burn, but think we could use much more if we had it.

The man with time to burn, of course, has time to waste. "Waste" means "wasted time."

This can be true of time as well as of other things. We are aware that much time is wasted for which we give an account in the judgment. How many realize how much time they waste? It is too precious to waste. There is a place for every moment of our time, and we should use it in the best possible way. It may be spent in ways that would be worse than wasted.

Some author said that "Idleness is the root of all evil."

This may be a little extravagant, but I am sure that many evils would be avoided if people were always engaged in something useful.

There is an old adage that says: "An idle brain is the devil's workshop."

Man will think upon something. And "As a man thinketh so is he." The thinking determines the character of the man. He should think upon things that will lead to good and noble. Feed his mind upon pure food.

Somebody once said: "A girl unemployed is thinking of mischief." If it is true of girls it is also true of boys. It is evident that much mischief is the outgrowth of idleness, especially in the cities. Useful, regular employment would do away with some of the joy-riding that is carried on, especially the all-night frolicking in which many young people engage. They need employment, of a nature that lifts their thoughts above such things.

AMERICAN APPRECIATING SAM HUGHES

(From the Philadelphia Inquirer)

It is a little hard for some of us to hark back seven years and remember when the late Sir Sam Hughes was the most spectacular figure in the western world. He was Manitoba's Minister in Canada, and the world broke out and conceived it his duty to aid the Dominion regardless of any other consideration. For a considerable time he was a despot. He gave orders, spent money, knocked convention and the laws in the head—and sent troops to France in record time.

Much as we pride ourselves on the way in which we got into the war game, it must be said that Canada bent us to it simply because the Man of the Hour was on deck. When military officers said a thing could not be done, he ordered others to do it in defiance of custom—and it was done. For red tape he had contempt, for military routine he had no consideration whatever. If a thing ought to be done he did it. If money had to be spent he spent it even when he had not a cent. The Princes Pata went over immediately some 1,500 troops, and only 15 came back.

In a few months he had 100,000 Canadians in France and 75,000 more in local training camps—many of whom were American boys who could not wait their entrance to the United States to it simply because the Man of the Hour was on deck. He fed his men better than any other soldiers in the history of the world. He was honest and he was efficient. He was criticized.

The thing came when he fell under the ban of officialdom. Conservatism ruled in high places and he disappeared as a great factor in the war game. He was brought against him of every kind except that he had served the Dominion, the Empire and Humanity. He was content. He did his bit. He has passed on. About this time he must be in a position to review his career with satisfaction.

When the history of Canada is finally written Sir Sam Hughes will stand a place in the Temple of Fame which need not be recorded in letters of gold, since it will be in the hearts of his countrymen.

Critics may praise you grudgingly. True men shall praise you "day by day." The perfume will linger fragrantly. When the flower fades away, the memory of the man will vindicate. The man "who brooked no delay."

Stockers and Feeders—Steady—Some choice feeders make up to $3.65, but bulk $2.50 to $3.50; stockers, $2 to $2.75; stocker and feeder, $1.50 to $2.25; stocker cows, $1 to $2.

Hogs—Higher—Better cattle at Edmonton have increased tops, with $4 to $4.75 for the exporters; good butchers, $3.50 to $4; medium, $2.50 to $3.50; common, $1.50 to $2.50. Choice cows, $2.75 to $3.25; good, $2 to $2.50; medium, $1.50 to $2; common, $1 to $1.50; and canners down to 50c. Grain—Generalized—Tremendous rush of wheat on markets and no buying for export has run that grain down very badly and other grains also suffered, though not so severely. No prospect of revival until foreign buying starts again. Trade opinion favors higher prices later.

Produce—Eggs—Calgary prices advanced to $10.50 to $10.80, light receipts and demand slow. Creamery butter—Local demand taking most of supplies and no market for seconds; no coast not buying much. Prices unchanged. Dairy butter—Good demand for fancy tubs; other grades slow at 15c to 25c. Cream and milk—Unchanged. Cheese—Steady at 14c; last week's reduction to 14c to 15c. Poultry—No market. Turkey and light local demand; last sales at Calgary $17 to $20; business this week nil.

Prices in Edmonton have been advanced, with fresh quoted $9 and stale eggs at 10c. Potatoes—Prices unchanged; chickens, 15c; fowl, 13c; selling market dull and receipts fairly good. Potatoes—No market. Much surplus remaining in northern territory, and some being shipped to U.S.; market steady.

Prices unchanged at 34c at creameries, but hides moving at better prices, but country branded stock not in demand yet.

Firm—Season's prospects good.

Wool—Eastern prices 92c to 90c on grades; this week may keep up, but low grades look weak.

"SOD SOAKER" OF RAIN NEEDED TO STOP FIRES

Great Damage Is Now Being Done
Through Central Part of Alberta

It will take all the rains and snows of the fall and winter to put out the fires that are raging in the district that is in a position to be the present town, according to Game Guardian Benjamin Lawton. Few realize the depths to which the fires are burning, the difficulties in connection with their control, he says. The whole of the face of the province could not be fire enough men to put out the fires, but the department is operating with all the agencies that have the matter in hand, including the provincial police, the mounted police, the justices of the peace and the councilors of the municipalities. The department has its fire guardians who have the power to call on all the able-bodied people in the district to help light the fires and much has been done, but with little water, as nearly all the wells in the country are going dry with such a long dry spell, it is difficult to control the fires. The fire was so dry in Central Alberta in the past twenty-seven years, according to the memory of Mr. Lawton.

PIRE SURROUNDS FOUR COTTAGES

In one place on the south side of the Stony Plain Road, four cottages are completely surrounded by the flames. This is just outside the city limits. The people there have been fighting the fire for a week and the provincial police have been compelling the farmers and others to render assistance. As to the damage that has been done already, Mr. Lawton says that the rains are necessary to give all their energies to putting out the fires as the present lack of water is the worst.

They know however of 150 tons of hay that was burned on the Indian Reserve, west of the city, many stacks of feed and considerable fencing, as well as pasture and a few buildings. Similar conditions obtain at Woodhead and Cymount and again between Leduc and Telfordville. There are fires along the St. Paul and the Waterways railways also. Some granaries and stacks have been burned in these places.

The game is running ahead of the fire, and wherever there has been fire, the game will be entirely wiped out.

THOROUGH SATURATION NEEDED

The soil will have to be thoroughly saturated with moisture to put out the fires, says Mr. Lawton. The municipality devolves the responsibility of looking after their fires, and in the municipal districts the council is also in authority, and the provincial fire guardians are receiving the best co-operation of the Canadian police and the provincial police in trying to guard life and property in these exceptional conditions.

Zam-Buk
WONDERFUL

Mr. WILFRED ARMY, 4, Lepp Avenue, TORONTO, writes: "On active service with the R.F.C. I contracted piles through sleeping on damp ground. Treatment by the M.O. brought no relief and various 'pile remedies' I tried proved equally hopeless. Shortly after my discharge from the service a friend strongly advised me to get Zam-Buk. One box of the balm brought such relief that I determined to continue the treatment. In a few weeks Zam-Buk caused the piles to completely disappear. All other sufferers should know this wonderful herbal balm."
